INTRODUCTION

They're intelligent. Highly-trained. And they kill without remorse. They're a team of vicious international terrorists and unless their demands are met, hundreds of innocent lives will be lost. Hostages have been taken. Explosives set. Now, from the glass-and-steel labyrinth of the Nakatomi Plaza high-rise to the crowded terminals of Washington/Dulles airport to the mean streets of New York City, timers tick down the seconds until the bombs detonate, creating an inferno of twisted wreckage and mangled bodies.

- The situation looks hopeless.
- Except for one factor the terrorists never planned on.

Detective John McClane. A cop with the determination of a pitbull and the bad habit of always being in the wrong place at the wrong time.

It's up to you to help McClane wipe out the terrorists, find and free the hostages, and defuse the bombs before it's too late. You'll need brains, skill, and a little help from some of the most deadly weapons a cold-blooded terrorist or hero cop ever laid hands on. Not to mention, the guts to take on impossible odds and come out on top - or die trying.

DIE HARD

NAKATOMI PLAZA: THE OBJECTIVE

You are in the parking garage of Nakatomi Plaza, a Los Angeles skyscraper wired to explode.

Above you, there are 19 more floors, crawling with terrorists. They're out to steal millions in negotiable bonds held in the Nakatomi Corporation's safe, and they won't hesitate to kill hundreds of hostages in the process.

Now, you've got to fight your way up, floor-by-floor, to the rooftop – searching hallways, office suites, the grand ballroom and even floors under construction – killing all the terrorists and rescuing as many hostages as possible along the way.

Oh, one more thing. Once you kill the last terrorist on each floor, a bomb is activated. It will appear on your map as a flashing dot. Get to it in time and you'll automatically move to the next floor. Don't, and Nakatomi Plaza will be obliterated. So get ready. John McClane is about to begin what could be the wildest – or the last – Christmas of his life.

ON-SCREEN INFORMATION

Terrorist Gunsight:

When you see McClane here, it means a terrorist is targeting him. The red arrow shows the direction of the attack.

End of Level Bomb LED:

Appears when the final terrorist on each level has been killed. Get to it before the LED reaches zero, or you and Nakatomi Plaza will be vaporised.

Radar Screen:

The radar screen will show you a map of the level with the following information.

Blue	Hostage
Yellow	Pick-up
Red	Terrorist
Flashing Red	End of level bomb

WEAPONS

When the game begins, McClane carries only his police-issue 15-shot automatic - hey, he came to Nakatomi Plaza to visit his wife, not take on an army. This is his default weapon. It has an infinite supply of ammunition, BUT after 15 shots, you must fire once more (that CLICK means, your magazine is empty) before the pistol automatically reloads.

There are more powerful weapons and explosives in the form of pickups, dropped by dead terrorists or hidden around the levels. Walking over a weapon adds it to your arsenal. McClane keeps only his pistol and the last weapon he collected (he simply cannot weigh himself down with too many weapons). Grenades and other explosives in your arsenal may be selected before use.

Pistol: McClane's default weapon. Reloads automatically after each 15-shot clip is fired empty.

Shotgun: A powerful weapon. Reload is slow.

Shotgun with explosive shells.

Assault Rifle: Very deadly with high-power 7.62mm bullets.

M60 Machine Gun: Belt fed machine gun. Very powerful.

MP5 Sub-Machine Gun: A small, hand-held weapon, firing 9mm ammunition.

Grenades: Explosion is capable of killing multiple terrorists, breaking glass, knocking down doors and partitions.

Smoke Grenade: Will disorient terrorists and obscure their vision long enough to cover an attack or evasive action.

Flash Bang Grenade: Stuns any terrorist within range of the grenade for a short period of time.

PICKUPS

How can you fight terrorists if you're wounded, bloody or in need of a hot dog? Keep your eyes open for pickups. They may be in the open, dropped by terrorists or found in boxes. In the later stages of the game McClane will be given opportunities to collect extra lives by saving hostages from execution.

Cola, Drinks, Hot dogs, etc.: Items help replenish McClane's health level.

First Aid Pack: A larger health boost.

Medical Kit: Can take care of major damage.

Bullet Proof Vest: Provides good protection while it lasts.

LEVELS

Enter the building from the dark, dangerous underground Garage and try to make it through Reception. Battle through terrorist-filled offices to the machinery-filled Maintenance Levels. Crash the party in the Ballroom, or meander through temporary partitions on the Construction Levels. Hide in the boardroom of the Executive Level, or root out the Hostages in the Vault. Wind your way through Nakatomi Plaza until you reach the Computer levels, treacherous with broken glass scattered everywhere, home to the strangest, most heavily armed bosses, surrounded by their henchmen.

If you've been good and rescued the Hostages, you'll earn a bonus trip to the rooftop. Here, whilst picking off snipers and escorting the hostages to the escape Chopper, you can gain numerous rewards – if you can find them before the last Hostage escapes. Yippie-Ki-Yay!

BONUS SCREEN

You've killed the terrorists, faced the Bosses, saved some hostages and made it to the elevator before the Level Bomb exploded. Here's where you relax and get your reward. Until the elevator doors open on the next level, that is. Yippie-Ki-Yay!

DIE HARD 2: DIE HARDER

WASHINGTON/DULLES AIRPORT: THE OBJECTIVE

If you're New York cop John McClane, there's got to be one thing you're asking yourself as you arrive at Washington/Dulles Airport to pick up your wife: Why does this always happen to me? The place is crawling with terrorists. They've come to rescue a South American dictator – and drug kingpin who's being flown to the US to stand trial. And you walked into the middle of the plot.

You see all the action through McClane's eyes, as he races through the terminal annihilating terrorists – but hopefully not civilians and hostages. From the concourse to the New Annex. From the runway to the surrounding countryside. On foot. By snowmobile. Even by helicopter, the chase continues with rapid-fire speed, until you bring down the terrorist escape plane.

CONTROLS

The program will control McClane's movement through the game, scrolling from one area to the next, starting, stopping or moving continuously as needed. You control McClane's weapons, aiming, firing, and throwing explosives.

Aim by moving the CROSS-HAIR on the screen with Directional buttons. The AUTO ZOOM will zoom in on the view in the Cross Hair for more accurate aiming. REMEMBER, when the action extends past the edges of the screen an ARROW on the outer edge of the Cross-Hair will point to terrorists lurking just out of sight. Moving the Cross-Hair to the edge of the screen will cause McClane to turn his head and bring this area into view.

ON-SCREEN INFORMATION

Blue Target Circle: Highlights any person onscreen who has a gun.

Red Target Circle: Means you've been targeted by a terrorist. The outer arrow shows the direction of the threat. When the two arrows on the target line up, the enemy will shoot. If more than one enemy is on screen, the Red Target Circle highlights the one who will shoot first.

- If you're hit, the screen blurs momentarily.

WEAPONS

If you've been to an airport lately, you know how tense Security gets when you walk in with lots of heavy weapons. Which is why, when the game begins, McClane carries only his police-issue 15-shot automatic. He may find a second pistol, in which case he will carry both at once, doubling his firepower. These are his default weapons. They have an infinite supply of ammunition, BUT when empty you must push RELOAD for a fresh clip.

There are more powerful weapons and explosives in the form of pickups, dropped by dead terrorists or hidden around the levels. Fire at a weapon to pick it up. When a weapon runs out of ammo or McClane picks up a new weapon, the old one is dropped. (With the exception of the pistols). However, if a player is given a weapon as a "GOOD COP BONUS" he will default to this weapon from then on.

AK47 Machine Gun

RPG Rocket: Creates a huge radius of destruction.

Fragmentation Grenade: Creates a smaller radius of destruction than the rocket.

Information on the following high powered weapons; the Pistol, 12 Gauge Shotgun, and MP5 Sub-Machine Gun can be found in the Die Hard weapons list.

PICKUPS

Every hit McClane takes weakens him, so watch for Pickups that may be in view, hidden or dropped when a Terrorist dies. Grab Pickups by lining them up in the Cross-Hair and shooting them once.

Health: Can take care of major damage.

LEVELS

The onslaught begins upon your arrival at Dulles Airport's Main Terminal. Terrorists besiege you from all sides as you blast your way to the Terminal's New Wing, still under construction, and into the cold, damp Tunnel that runs beneath the Runway. After a long battle around the jet, you battle your way into the Plane Interior until you reach the cockpit. If you manage to escape alive, you parachute into the Church and its surrounding woods.

Make it out of this unholy terror and you'll find yourself engaged in the high-speed Snowmobile chase. Slaughter the cold-blooded terrorists as you slalom through the blinding snow and you're ready to board a chopper.

Your final mission: Plane intercept. If you thought the snowmobile was a rough ride, just wait until you're trying to target the four jet engines in buffeting winds at 12,000 feet.

BONUS SCREEN

If McClane flies the unfriendly skies successfully, here's where you'll see the results. Bonus points are awarded for number of Terrorists killed to "Hostages saved and remaining health".

DIE HARD WITH A VENGEANCE

NEW YORK CITY: THE OBJECTIVE

New York, New York. If you can make it here, you'll make it anywhere – and if you can't, half of Manhattan will disappear in a blinding flash.

This time, it's a gang of terrorists led by the twisted genius, Simon. They've stashed bombs throughout the city to cover a multi-billion dollar heist. And Simon says, John McClane is the only one who can defuse them. But the clock is ticking.

It's a test of your nerves and your driving skills, as you and your reluctant partner, Zeus, seek out and commandeer more than fifteen different vehicles, stomp the pedal down and go. Blaze through the traffic-choked streets of Chinatown in a high-powered sports car. Scatter some skaters in Central Park, in a dump truck. Grab a cab and drive it right into the subway system. Whatever you do, you've got to get to the next bomb and run it over before it detonates. Then, outrun the terrorists before they escape.

You can swap vehicles in any specially-marked Parking Lot. Once you pull in, the change is made automatically and game control returns to you.

ON-SCREEN INFORMATION

- Follow the RED ARROW on the Compass to the nearest Bomb.
- Follow the BLUE ARROW on the Compass to the nearest Parking Lot to change cars. Depending on the View you choose, you'll either be looking out the windshield from McClane's point-of-view, or trailing slightly above and behind your vehicle.
- BOMBS are indicated by a RED TARGET. Drive over to defuse it.
- You will have to hit the BOMB CAR a few times to destroy it.
- The clock enlarges to full screen as time runs down to the last 5 seconds.
- In sections of the game when you're pursuing a Terrorist vehicle through the subway, a Scanner will appear, mapping your position.

VEHICLES

McClane starts out driving a TAXI. As the game progresses, you'll have the chance to try out dozens of other vehicles. Each offers different handling, speed, acceleration, braking, weight and skid capabilities. A skilful driver can learn to execute some incredible stunt manoeuvres.

PICKUPS

Time: Gives McClane more time and a better chance to reach the next bomb.

Turbo: Activate with the ● button.

Launch: Drive over these mini-bombs to catch some air.

Points: Extra points.

EMS: Summons an ambulance. Perfect when you're stuck in heavy traffic.

Nitro: Gives vehicle an extra surge of power

LEVELS

Peel out of Harlem, past that famous New York landmark – piles of garbage bags on the sidewalk – and get on the Subway System with its dark maze of tunnels. Look out for oncoming trains! Get off in Central Park and turn on Central Park Drive, where you'll quickly see if an 18-Wheeler makes a good off-road vehicle. Make it past the traffic lights of West Side Highway and it's welcome to Chinatown. The one-way streets are clogged with pedestrians and market stalls, but you can always use the sidewalks.

Challenge your driving skills in the Financial District as you race through Wall Street rush hour. When you hit The Aqueduct, an enclosed tunnel brings you face-to-face with the City's most numerous residents: Rats. Watch for workmen and jutting pipes until you're on The Waterfront. Survive this dockside obstacle course and it's the Finale: a white-knuckle chase with mad Simon himself.

BONUS SCREEN

You drove at top speed through Manhattan, ignoring traffic lights, pedestrians and public property. You raced down dark subway tunnels, insanely ignoring the threat of oncoming trains.

Either you're a New York cabbie who just finished an average day's work, or you successfully completed a level in DIE HARD WITH A VENGEANCE and you're ready for your bonus points. Points are added for safety margin, citizens saved, car damage and time remaining.
