Green Co., Pa. . . . .		rare
Berwyn, Pa. . . . .		not com.	5-8-'94
Portland, Conn. . . . .	rare

Here is another bird which should have especial attention directed toward it. It should be found to be pretty generally distributed in suitable localities.

Helminthophila pinus (Linn.) BLUE-WINGED WARBLER.

	T. V.	S. R.	GENERAL NOTES.
Coffeyville, Kan. . . . .	common
Jackson Co., Me. . . . .		common

Berwyn, Penn. . . . .		common
Portland, Conn. . . . .		rare

Once learn the piercing, insect tone of this little fellow and you are sure to find it, during late April or early May, high up in the tree tops. But its nest must be sought for on the ground, near which, in the underbrush, it stays during the summer.

Helminthophila chrysoptera. GOLDEN-WINGED WARBLER.
